

Network Security

Network Security

We've discussed web applications, however, what supports the actual Internet? Network security is our final module of the course, where we're going to go through the protocols that explain how users communicate across a network. We'll also cover the attacks that exist against these protocols, and methods to protect against them.